

Principles of Scoring

Marching Band Adjudication

- Principle 1: The primary responsibility of the judge is to rate and rank the units both in the separate sub captions and in the total score of the specific sheet. Ties may occur on occasion in the sub captions, however, ties of the bottom line score must be carefully analyzed for accuracy and usefulness.
- Principle 2: The judge should utilize the system based on the bottom third, middle third and top third of each of the boxes. Those locations help give meaning to any number.
- Principle 3: The list of components for each sub caption is certainly not a checklist. The overall meaning is derived from the depth of knowledge of the caption, from the understanding of the standards of the activity and from the understanding that the score is the result of the sum on the components.
- Principle 4: Each sub caption is always a combination to some extent of the “what and how”. Nevertheless, the decisions in each sub caption must be independently considered.
- Principle 5: Impression-Analysis-Comparison is a “tool” for the judges to use in order to decide a box range and position within the box (thirds) and the relative score for any unit in the contest (rating)
